A Grand Jury Decision.

"Paddle wheels" are not gambling devices according to the opinion of an Armstrong county grand jury, who held that it is not unlawful to set up and operate on the public streets gambling devices known as "paddle wheels." It emphacises this decision by placing the costs on Rev. L. A. Carroll, rector of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, of Kittanning, whom the district attorney named as the prosecutor. Witnesses swore to losing money on the paddle wheel and that they were running openly on the streets.—Bradford Herald.

What a Hog Can do.

John Rinker, of Scranton, holds, he believes the world's championship as a beer drinker says the Clinton County Democrat. One night last week he drank on a wager, eight gallons in twenty eight minutes. He bet he could do it in an hour. Rinker placed a tube in the barrel, and with a large crowd of men and women watching the test, he drank steadily for twenty-five minutes. Then he complained that no more beer came, so the keg was tilted and he drank the last drop So little was he inconvenienced that he stood at the bar and drank several glasses more.

Buy a Farm.

Central Missouri Republican.

Buy a farm, young man, no matter how small it may be, buy a farm and prepare it so that your land will provide you a living. Twenty years from now the man who owns his farm will be independent and will have at his command the means of a livlihood, no matter what industrial crisis causes trouble. The expansion of manufactures cannot go on forever, and there will come a day in this country, as there has in others, when the supply will exceed the demand, and the only absolutely sure occupation will be farming. Buy a farm while one may be had.

For the Housewife.

Ever since our Colonial ancestors instituted Thanksgiving Day, it has been a day of rejoicing, and the good-old fashioned dinner plays the all important part therein. A detailed and an interesting account of a Thanksgiving dinner as it will be served by the young housewife who has followed the story of "The Making of a Housewife" in The Delineator is given by Isabel Gordon Curtis in the November number. "Thanksgiving Day Novelties" illustrate many seasonable dishes, from the trraditional pumpkin pie, to a choiceely arranged harvest centrepiece. Other articles on "Nut Novelties" and "Maple Dainties" can be made to advantage at the same season of the year, and will add a novelty to the family menu.

Clay Pigeon Shoot.

St. Marys Gun Club met our Club last Friday afternoon on Keystone Park ground. Each contestant had fifty shots and the following score, out of a possible 300, was the result:

The friendly contest attracted a large crowd, it being the second day of the Fair. It is to be hoped the Gun Club will put themselves in training and make an effort at least to redeem themselves.

Letter from Dunlevie, W. Va.

EDITOR PRESS:—I will write you a few lines from our new town, now called Dunlevie, started May 15th. We now have twenty dwelling houses, two stores and two restaurants.

Mr. E. V. Dunlevie has just completed his residence and has one of the best saw mills in the State. The mill is now ready for the machinery and will be in running order inside of six weeks. They have completed five miles of railroad.

Mr. J. E. Rhodes is running the Company boarding house and has more trade than he can care for. Jack has struck luck once more.

J. C. Skillman has just returned from Columbus, O., with four fine teams and will make things hustle now. "Jess" says he is going back to Pennsylvania for fifty more men. He now employs seventy-five men.

Wages good here and it is a good place to work in the winter. Come along, old Hicks, Dunlevie is the place now.

PENN'A HICK.

Dents Run Trounces the Driftwood Regulars.

DENTS RUN, PA., Oct 7, '05.

EDITOR PRESS:—In one of the most interesting games played in this part of Elk county this season, Driftwood's first team, assisted by some of the best players from Clinton county, was trimmed up to the tune of 4 to 1.

Driftwood was completely outclassed at all stages of the game, and were simply helpless with Jones' masterly delivery.

At the beginning of the sixth inning the game was called in order to allow the visitors to catch a train.

The heavy hitting of the locals was the feature of the game.

Hard Jolt for Cityites.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—The Central Labor Union, with its 124 affiliated labor organizations represented yesterday, withdrew Frank Feeney, its candidate for sheriff, indorsed the candidates on the Republican ticket, passed a vote of thanks to Senator Penrose for his efforts in behalf of union labor, and started a campaign against the City party nominees.

Serious Collision.

Last Sunday's Erie Mail west collided with a freight train at Millersburg Junction, killing three of the freight crew. A car load of race horses were either killed or injured so badly that they had to be shot.

Richard Kelley now has charge of the New Warner Restaurant, Mr. Buckley having returned to his old haunts.

How he Stands at Home.

Samuel P. Kreider, one of the Republican candidates for County Commissioner, was calling on some of the voters in Emporium on Tuesday. Mr. Kreider takes well with the voters. The following article from the Driftwood Gazette, Mr. Kreider's home town, shows how he stands with his nighbors:

It is customary, and in fact has become almost a necessity, to publish a sketch or history of every man coming up for public patronage, and as we have heard the praises sung of about every candidate before the people, it will not be amiss to publish a brief sketch of the life of Mr. Samuel P. Kreider, Republican candidate for County Commissioner.

Mr. Kreider was born in Juniata county in 1857 and at the age of 12 years he followed the plow on his father's farm. He was left fatherless and homeless at the tender age of 13 years and from that time to the present day he has paddeled his own canoe. He came to Cameron county when but a lad 14 of years and was a brakeman on the P. and E, railroad at the age of 15 years, following that vocation for seven years. He took up lumbering on Mason Hill with Myron Lane and for two years cut, stocked and rafted logs. He moved to Driftwood and continued the logging business for another year, having a job in partnership with Daniel Burns, on Nanny Run, and for the following fifteen years was teamster for J. O. Brookbank & Co. In 1897 Mr Kreider, with Mr. Walter Yothers, engaged in the general merchandise business, in which by hard work and close application to business, he is still successfully engaged. He has worked hard all his life and never had a dollar that he did not earn. He is a life-long resident of Cameron county; an upright, honest, Christian gentleman; a man of family; a property owner and a business man, and as such is as deeply interested in the welfare of Cameron county as any man, and the opposition can rest assured that he will do his whole duty as a commissioner.

The Republican party is, and has every reason to be proud of its candidates for county commissioner and auditor and will do its duty next month by electing them.

"Hold on, Quaker."

Boss Hockley believes in the old fad that a lie stuck to is better than the forced truth. In his desperate effort to hoodwink the tax payers and make them believe that the editor of the PRESS is, or was, or would like to be, a bridge agent. Now he attempts to make us a "go-between." His silly stuff cannot catch the voters, who know that for ten or more years Boss Hockley's gang have stuck as close as flies to a molasses barrel, knowing when they had a good thing—junketing trips all over the country at the expense of bridge contractars. It would be a cold day when an "outsider" breaks into a contract We are told contractors have endeavored to get an opportunity to bid on some of the county work but after making every effort to get even into the Commissioners' office have given up the job as a fools errand. The tax payers have watched the wanton display of "star chamber," side door, midnight conferences. Jones has been paying the freight but the taxpayers are now footing the bills. They are onto the game and clap trap stuff of a ring order don't go in this county of favored valuations at the expense of the many. Unless all signs fail the voters, regardless of party, are truthful in their declarations that they will make sure this time by electing the Republican County Commissioners.

Changes in Lumber Office.

Mr. R. W. Robinson, who recently left Emporium, where he had been in the employ of C. B. Howard & Co., for over nine years, to accept the position of Sec'y and Treas., of their lumber plant at Westboro, Wis., has resigned his position and entered the lumber firm of C. H. Stout Co., with a half interest in the business. His friends here, who have a warm spot for R. W. and wife, wish him well and hope he may continue to prosper. This necessitates a change all around. Mr. A. D. Macdonnell, of this place, who but recently returned from Westboro, goes back to his old place, moving his family to Westboro next spring. Mr. Jas. Murphy is advanced to Mr. Macdonnell's position as manager of Emporium & Rich Valley R. R., office and C. B. Howard & Co's store office. Mr. John T. Howard has been appointed Local Agent of R R., and clerk in office and entered upon his duties. The store crew continues as formerly—Mr. R. R. McQuay and Mr. Jas. M. Davison, careful reliable men and hustlers, with Uncle Jake Hoffman at the delivery auto. It is a busy hive and no play while they work.

Republican Party Supper.

The Republican Party Supper given at the New Warner House last Thursday evening was a very pleasant affair and passed off in a quiet, orderly and social manner. Covers were laid for sixty-eight. A Glee Club, composed of Dr. R. P. Heilman, A. D. Ericsson, Jay P. Felt, Fred R. Heilman and Chas. T. Logan enlivened the occasion with song from start to finish. The attendance from all parts of the county manifested an interest in the success of the Republican nominations and augurs well for the entire ticket. Mr. L. W. Gleason, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, designated Hon. Josiah Howard, who was the chief promoter of the supper, to act as Chairman of the occasion, when the social gathering were seated around three long tables, abundantly supplied with all the good things. Before making an attack upon the tempting menu the Glee Club sang "America" all present joiuing in singing the National Anthem. After devouring the turkey and other delicacies, interspersed with several songs, Hon. Josiah Howard broke the rule to dispense with toasts and speeches, giving a description of the "work and practice of the Pennsylvania Legislature," describing in a very intelligent manner to the evident satisfaction of all present, who listened to his remarks with marked attention.

This is the first of the Republican Party suppers to be given in this county and we hope the one to be given next year, if the custom shall be permanent, will be held at Driftwood. These occasions, being strictly of a social order, cannot fail but result in good.

After listening to and assisting in singing "The Star Spangled Banner," Chairman Gleason distributed a box of Hon. J. Lee Plummer buttons, when every Republican marched from the banquet hall wearing the standard bearer's button. Even Hon. I. K. Hockley, a guest, editor of the democratic Independent, was profusely decorated on all sides with "For State Treasurer, Hon. J. Lee Plummer." We have it from close authority that Mr. Hockley never since the days of husking bees and boiled cider has he slept so peacefully and innocently—not even one snore.

The following persons sat at the tables:

The Independent editor in his excuse for building a several thousand dollar bridge on the Portage where none is now needed, "is a mighty lame argument," as a democrat put it on Saturday. If a small bridge is needed on West Creek why the necessity for making two contracts. One would have answered. But that would not fill the compact.

Sound thinking tax-payers have come to the sane conclusion that a $40,000 debt and taxes increasing at an alarming extent, is time to make a change or move out of the county. Experimenting has been a mighty expensive dose for the property owner, except for the favored ones.

Hour of Service Changed.

Beginning with next Sunday the evening service at the First Methodist Episcopal Church will be changed from 7:30 to 7 o'clock. Members of the congregation will kindly bear this in mind.

"Dora Thorne."

"A clever dramatization of Bertha M. Clay's novel, 'Dora Thorne', was an offering to the patrons of the Grand Opera House last night, which was received with many evidences of genuine appreciation. It tells a very interesting story fraught with heart interest. The situations are strong, the climaxes effective. The play is splendidly staged, but in scenery as well as plot there is very little of the melodramatic. It is a comedy drama and a play that will appeal particularly to the ladies."—Wheeling, (W. Va.) Register.

Death of D. D. Colcord.

Dr. D. D. Colcord, who had been at Coudersport several weeks, answered the last roll call and "went over the Divide" on Oct. 4th, at the ripe old age of 84 years and 12 days. He was a veteran of the civil war and a pensioner. Funeral was held Saturday 7th, and interment made in Homer Cemetery beside his first wife. He left two brothers, M. B., of Port Allegany and Albert of Homer, Pa., and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Peet, of Coudersport, also a widow and two sons, Dr. A. W., of Clairton, Pa., and M. J., of the Potter Journal. In his younger days he took up teaching as a profession and had taught schools all over Potter and Cameron counties to the amount of nearly 100 terms. Later he took up the practice of medicine, in which he was quite successful, and saved the people of this section a great many dollars, which they would have had to pay doctors from a distance had they been employed. He also filled the pulpit on many occasions, when there was a scarcity of preachers. He has served as post master at First Fork, for about 30 years, but had resigned a few weeks previous to his demise.

INDEX.

Sizerville Magnetic Mineral Water.

One of the most unique mineral springs in the country is at Sizerville, in Pennsylvania. Oil prospectors were responsible for the discovery of this spring. In drilling for oil the water came to the surface when the drills had reached 500 feet. Some of the workmen tasted the water, and finding that it possessed some unheard of qualities reported the find to their employers, who concluded that the water was far more valuable than oil. The water was tested by thousands, and as many cures were affected the springs soon became famous.

As a remedy, especially for indigestion, rheumatism, kidney and liver troubles, the Sizerville Magnetic Water is strongly endorsed both by physicians and their patients. The present proprietors, Edward D. Sizer & Co., bottle and ship the water in large quantities all over the country. Those who are interested should address the company for terms, etc.—American Wine Press and Mineral Water News

Dr. Bardwell Failing.

Dr. E. O. Bardwell, who has been in feeble health for some time, was taken suddenly worse about five o'clock yesterday morning. Drs. DeLong, Heilman and Smith have been in constant consultation all day, but at this writing (9:30 p. m.) he is no better.

LATER: This (Thursday) morning we are pleased to report that the Dr. is no worse, is easier and passed a fairly good night. We all hope he may pull through, although still in a dangerous condition.

Serious Wreck.

A Serious wreck occured at Wyman Chemical Switch, near Port Allegany, yesterday morning, wrecking twelve cars. The wreckage took fire. All trains were delayed until last evening except passenger trains east and they were sent via Clermont. Patrick Kinney of Buffalo, one of the engineer's, was injured in back. Conductor Frank Joslin was also injured two of his fingers being cut off. Joslin, it is said, had formerly lost all fingers on one hand.

Rummage Sale.

The ladies of Emmanuel Episcopal Church will conduct a Rummage sale in the store room on Broad street commencing next Monday evening at seven o'clock. Sale to continue all week.

Speaker Nixon Passes Away.

WESTFIELD, N. Y., October 10.—S. Fred Nixon, speaker of the assembly, died at his home today. He was taken ill a short time ago with appendicitis. Simple methods relieved the trouble temporarily but a sudden change for the worse came, and an operation was performed to-day. From this he did not rally, dying at 4:50 p. m.

The Dayton, (O.) Daily Journal speaks in the following way of Rowland & Clifford's production of "Dora Thorne" which will be seen here Saturday, Oct. 21, at the opera house:

"The patrons of the National filled the house yesterday afternoon and evening to witness the initial performance of 'Dora Thorne' in this city. The dramatization of this popular novel is new, and surely was a happy inspiration of the playwright, as its presentation by a good company yesterday won the hearty approval of the audience. 'Dora Thorne' as a novel is a beautiful story and has been so widely read and re-read by lovers of a sweet story that comments on the reproduction of 'Dora Thorne's story on the stage are superfluous. The play abounds in pathos and mirth, and the actors who assume the roles in this pretty play are well fitted to their parts and certainly do justice to their respective roles." Dora Thorne visited Emporium last year and gave great satisfation.

Base Ball.

The base ball game at the Park last Friday between Emporium and Renovo was witnessed by the largest crowd of the season. Renovo had a very strong team, having five profesional players, but they nevertheless had nothing on Orvis Henphill, the local twirler, who pitched a very steady game and would have won, with proper support. He fanned seven of Renovos heavy hitters and was effective at all stages. Ross Overturf made the longest hit of the season. Score—6 to 2.

The game was accompanied by numerous "kicks" of which could have been easily settled by the Rules governing the sport.

John Temple Graves: "I estimate Mrs. Beecher as the coming figure upon the reading platform of America. She is without a superior and with scarcely an equal among the brilliant group of American men and women who interpret the world's great writers. Her powers surpass description and must be seen to be realized or appreciated." At Teachers' Institute, opera house, Oct. 31st.

The Fair.

The attendance at the Fair, last Thursday and Friday was quite large, especially on Friday. While the exhibits in the produce department was a great falling off from last year and a disappointment to all, the stock display was very creditable. The ball game and clay pigeon shoot aided in attracting a crowd. If our people desire a permanent association they must take hold and push it along. It takes work and plenty of it, to make it a success.

The many Democratic friends of George Minard and Robert B. Warner will show their disgust for ring tactics in stealing their Gibson delegates.

Yet They Get Victims.

Layers of odds at the race track are prone to circulate tales of their enormous losses upon certain races, but it is seldom that a loss on a run may be shown, for it has been figured by experts, states the New York Herald, that a skillful layer makes a book showing a percentage of 25 in his favor, by which he is bound to retain at least one-fourth of his takings. Large losses happen occasionally when an unexpected victory pays 40 or 50 to 1, but as a general thing, unless the bookmaker deliberately gambles with chance, he "makes book" so that he will show a profit on each race. A skillful bookie can so manipulate the odds that at no point does he stand to lose on a race, and, like his brother of the gambling house, his profit lies in this percentage in his favor. Even where gambling games are run without recourse to fraud the odds in favor of the dealer are never less than 20 per cent.

Difference in Envoys.

A London writer says Sergius Witte belongs to the mastiff type, Baron Komura to that of the weasel. The Russian envoy's manners are notoriously bad, so bad that he rarely enters the czar's presence without making some courtier's hair stand straight on end. Genial as he is by nature, he is often rough and off-hand, and sometimes he is quite brutal in his callousness; he tramples conventionality under foot ruthlessly and calls spades spades in a fashion that his enemies dub indecent. The Jap's manners, on the contrary, are exquisite. His courtesy is as kindly as it is ceremonious, and there is something quite touching in the gentle deference he shows to all whom he meets, even while allowing not one of them to approach him too nearly. Just as M. Witte is a stanch democrat, Baron Komura is an aristocrat by instinct.

Civilization stands for something definite, yet it is hard to measure. Not by foot-pounds or kilowatts or amperes or ohms can it be estimated, yet a certain college professor has hit upon a plan for attaining results which will be interesting, although not conclusive, says Youth's Companion. He has been traveling up and down the country, visiting schools far and wide, and putting a series of questions to the pupils. One of them is: "If not yourself, who would you rather have been?" According to the age at which the pupils show some of the larger knowledge of the world, and according to the answers they make, the professor rates the standing of the community which they represent. At last accounts, Springfield, Mass., was in the lead.

Theoretically a college match provides an opportunity for generous emulation between young men in some form of recreation which they follow for its own sake. This conception is retained in England better than in this country, where the national tendency to make a business of whatever is undertaken works against the best form of amateur sport. It is thus that great expenses are felt to be necessary in training; there is a tendency to take professional performances as the standard, and with this goes of necessity a desire for elaborate training and the erection of what should be a recreation into a solemn duty of winning. And from this in turn arise most of the troubles which have attended the growth of college athletics.

Miss Ida Sheehan, of Brooklyn, will present a unique medal to Martin Corcoran, a teamster. Across the bar will be the word "Humanity" and on the pendant the inscription: "Presented to Martin Corcoran on September 5, 1905, for Being the Most Humane Driver in Greater New York." The medal was Miss Sheehan's own idea and she pays for it herself through the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. She decided whom she would give it to after a course of sleuthing extending over two months.

Some Canadian papers express amazement that Lord Minto has been named to succeed Lord Curzon as viceroy of India. They consider that he is not big enough for the place. One paper declares that his lordship was barely up to the governorship of Canada, "an office of purely nominal functions which any schoolboy could fill."

PRESENT NATIONAL ISSUES

Republican Record on All Questions Is an Element of Strength in Every State.

Because the republicans in Ohio, Virginia, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and the other states which elect governors in 1905 are making, or are to make, their canvass on national issues, some democratic papers and politicians pretend to be surprised. The only surprising thing about this is that anybody should have the effrontery to affect surprise. This is the usual order of things, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. In nearly all the states in nearly every canvass in which governors or other state officers are chosen national questions are at the front. This is unavoidable in a great coutnry like ours, in which large issues of some sort are almost always being discussed. In every one of the states here mentioned a good deal of attention will be given to local concerns by the republicans. In Ohio, in the opening of the campaign, Gov. Herrick discussed state issues almost solely, and he said some things which will bother the democrats to answer. The republican candidate in Virginia is also giving a good deal of attention to state questions. So will the republican nominees in Massachusetts and Rhode Island, whoever they chance to be.

It is not a question of weakness on local questions for the republicans to discuss the great issues which are before their party in the nation at large. Whatever the peculiarities of their local politics may be, there are concerns which appeal alike to republicans from Maine to California and from Maryland to Oregon. They form a bond of union between the republicans of the entire country. The party's record on all the national questions is an element of strength for its members in every state. The republican candidates in Virginia, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Ohio will gain many votes because of their party's intelligence, progressiveness and courage in national concerns. Every republican state convention which has been held in 1905 has pointed triumphantly to the record of the Roosevelt administration. Every state convention of the party which is yet to be held this year will do the same. The republican record for championship of the interests of the people—of all the people, democrats and republicans, south and north—is an asset of incalculable value to every candidate of the party for every office, local as well as national.

In every state which votes in 1905 the republican candidates, stump orators and newspapers will give much attention to the issues of peculiar concern to themselves, in their own communities. In most cases they will probably give more attention to these matters than the democrats will like. On the whole, the republican state governments throughout the north and west have managed their affairs with ability and honesty. The people are satisfied with the republican governments which they have, and are likely to continue them. Herrick will be returned to power in Ohio. Utter of Rhode Island will be succeeded by himself or some other republican. It is perhaps too much to expect that the republicans will carry the democratic stronghold of Virginia, but they will put up a fight which will be memorable for its intelligence and vigor. The democrat Douglas in Massachusetts will be succeeded by a republican. In every Roosevelt state of last year which votes this year the conditions are favorable to the republicans. The democrats realize this, and will not be surprised at the returns which will be spread before the country on the morning of November 8. On local as well as national issues the republican party has the American people on its side in 1905, as it had in 1904.

SHOULD BE NO TARIFF JOLT

If the Dingley Law Is Good, Why Should the Hand of Revision Touch It?

A curiously tuned "bugle call" for tariff revision comes from that staunch and stalwart organ of republicanism and protection, the Pittsburg Gazette. Lest it be imagined that the Gazette has fallen from the faith and embraced false doctrines, we quote from its editorial a few sentences that have the ring of truth:

"There is no room to doubt that a protective tariff is the basis of national prosperity. The student of history cannot avoid that conclusion if he follows the lines with an open mind.

"Teeming prosperity greets the observer on every hand. Mills and factories are overwhelmed with orders, labor is fully employed, the fecund earth is yielding crops almost without parallel in agricultural annals.

"If tariff adjustment is a shock to business there will never come a moment when business will be in better condition to bear it.

"This prosperity, practically continuous, began with the enactment of the Dingley law. That law was the foundation on which it was built."

Why, then, asks the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, with a tariff under which abounding prosperity has been obtained and retained should the hand of revision be laid upon an instrument so powerful in its promotion of the commercial and industrial activities of the country? Because, in the words of the Gazette, "the common people, grown rotund with fatness, have forgotten the lean years and are demanding a change in the tariff laws." Because "if the Fifty-ninth congress does not do this, no man may say who will be called to do it." Because "the Fifty-ninth congress is a republican congress. It is economically sound. Speaker Joseph G. Cannon is a protectionist; Sereno E. Payne, John Dalzell, Charles H. Grosvenor, ranking members of the committee on ways and means; these are among the most ardent protectionists in this country. With these men to lead and a solid phalanx of republicans behind them, when the tariff is taken up for revision it will be in the hands of its friends. It will be revised right. No industry, no material interest will suffer. There ought not to be any fear about revising the tariff while these men, good and true, are there to do it."

All of which, apparently, means something like this: That the everlasting clamor of the free traders against the protective system is making an impression on a large mass of people who do not know when they are well off, who are liable to be led astray and who may suddenly vote into power the anti-protection party. Therefore the republican party should forestall any such movement by revising the tariff after its own fashion and in line with the popular sentiment may be appeased and principles of the Dingley law, so that tranquilized by the form of a revision which shall effect a change in schedules but not in the spirit and policy which pervade the present tariff. Then, says the Gazette, "let it alone for the next ten years."

A shrewd plan, honestly stated, but in its very nature wholly unsatisfactory to the most insistent agitators for revision—namely, those whose leading articles of faith is that "protection is robbery." The ten-year feature of the scheme could not be binding on them, or anybody else, if public sentiment should demand another revision in five years. The present tariff is not quite eight years old. Who can say how long a new one would last in view of the "irrepressible conflict' between free trade and protection and of the waves of political reaction which occasionally and spontaneously sweep over the country?

THERE IS A DISTINCTION.

Two Terms Which Should Be Used in Order of Respective Importance.

The friends of protection ought to be careful to distinguish between a maximum and a minimum tariff and a minimum and a maximum tariff.

It makes a great deal of difference which word comes first, says the Springfield (Mass.) Union.

It is a minimum and maximum tariff we must have if we would remain a protectionist country.

A minimum tariff would apply equally to all nations. It would be the declared tariff policy of the country, and in accordance with it manufacturers would govern their purchases and sales. The maximum duties would be applied only against those countries that discriminated against us.

A maximum tariff made to such nations as showed us the greatest commercial favors, would result in tariff instability. The manufacturer would never know what the tariff would be six months hence.

On the other hand the mistake should not be made of declaring the present Dingley law to be the maximum duties to be added to it.

☞The recent clamor for reciprocity has no deep foundation in public sentiment. Much of it is ambitious political clatter.—Burlington Hawkeye.

☞Senator Stone thinks there is an epidemic of republicanism, the cure for which is to remove the cause. The cause of the republican epidemic is the democratic party. We agree with the senator that it should be removed, and the sooner the better.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

That deficit in the national revenues which has caused certain democratic critics much worriment appears to be taking care of itself by turning into a surplus. For the first half of September a balance of $2,400,000 in receipts over expenses is announced.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PROMINENT MAN ARRESTED.

Superintendent of Schools of Peoria, Ill., Charged with Forgery and and Embezzlement.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 6.—Prof. Newton C. Dougherty, superintendent of city schools of Peoria for more than 20 years, president of the Peoria national bank and a capitalist, was yesterday arrested on two true bills returned by the grand jury, charged with forgery and embezzlement. The arrest followed an investigation of the grand jury of charges brought against Prof. Dougherty that the accounts of the school funds which were deposited in the bank of which he was president were being manipulated. The investigation resulted in the discovery that there was a shortage of at least $60,000. The investigation covered only the period from January, 1903. The grand jury will now, it is said, investigate the entire record of Prof. Dougherty as superintendent of schools and it is believed that a much greater shortage will be found.

Prof. Dougherty was first arrested on a charge of forgery, the specific charge being that he had forged a voucher for $164.50 for coal. He promptly furnished $3,000 bail. The indictment and arrest on the charge of embezzlement followed yesterday afternoon, and on this charge Prof. Dougherty furnished $9,700 bail.

Following his arrest on the charge of forgery Prof. Dougherty sent in his resignation as president and director of the Peoria national bank. He also sent in his resignation as superintendent of schools.

Mr. Dougherty has been city superintendent of schools for 25 years. He is wealthy, is president of the Peoria national bank and is a heavy stockholder in the Dime Savings and Trust Co., the Title and Trust Co., the Peoria Livery Co and other concerns.

Other incidents of the fire were the birth of a child while the mother was being removed from the building, and an accident which wrecked Fire Chief Croker's automobile and in which the chief narrowly escaped serious accident.

The fire is believed to be incendiary. The hallways of the building were filled with flame and smoke and every occupant of the building was asleep when the flames were discovered by William Teaz and James Nugent, firemen, who were off duty.

NEGRO STABS A CLERK.

An Attempt Made to Rob a Jewelry Store of Precious Gems.

New York, Oct. 6.—In broad daylight and with hundreds of people on the street, Louis Brown, a negro, made an attempt to rob a Maiden Lane jewelry store of $2,000 worth of gems yesterday. His attempt was frustrated by Oscar Windorf, a clerk, who grappled with the would-be thief and who was stabbed by the negro during the fight.

Brown is a carrier for jewelry salesmen. Yesterday he entered the store of Cross & Begulin and asked to see some jewelry. Windorf noticed the negro put a tray of jewels under his coat and immeditely seized him. Brown drew a knife and slashed the clerk until he finally got free. A chase of several blocks followed, Brown swinging right and left with his weapon as he rushed through the crowds. He was finally captured by a police officer.

Hunting Burglars Proved Fatal.

Vandergrift, Pa., Oct. 6.—The little village of Matteer, eight miles from here, was the scene of a tragedy late Wednesday night in which two persons were shot, one fatally. While hunting burglars around the home of his grandfather, Jacob Kanappenberger, Lloyd Remaly, aged 17, was shot in the abdomen by his uncle, Murray Kanappenberger, and the boy in frightened agony discharged his own revolver, the bullet striking his aunt, Lottie Kanappenberger, in the thigh.

A CAVE-IN AT A QUARRY

TEN TO SIXTEEN MEN CAUGHT IN THE COLLAPSE NEAR GRANVILLE, N. Y.

TEN MEN WERE KILLED

Among the Dead Is J. B. Williams, President of the Company, the Others Being Hungarian Laborers—Foreman Probably Fatally Hurt.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Ten men were killed yesterday by a cave-in at the Vermont Slate Co.'s quarry about 2½ miles from Granville, N. Y. Among the dead is J. G. Williams, president of the company. The others were Hungarian laborers.

Revised figures show that there were from ten to 16 men in the quarry when the collapse occurred. It will take from one to two weeks to dig out the entombed men. Immediately after the first collapse a second one took place which damaged the machinery of the quarry. Frazer Queen, the foreman, who was rescued, was taken to the Albany hospital, where one of his legs will be amputated. When he was found he was trying to dig his way out. His condition is said to be serious.

The cave-in was such as occurs frequently in the quarries which abound in southern Vermont, but usually they happen in the night or give sufficient warning for all to escape. This one caught a gang of men unawares and they were almost instantly buried before they could escape. The material which fell was mostly what is known as waste and several hundred tons comprised the great slide which buried the men. Mr. Williams, president of the company, was on the pile when it fell and was not buried deep, nor was his body badly disfiguren, but he was crushed internally.

DEATH WAS MYSTERIOUS.

Chicago Police Believe that a Young Girl Was Maltreated and Then Poisoned by a Doctor.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Dr. Oliver B. Hart, a young physician residing in the suburb of Rogers Park, is in the custody of the police pending further investigation of the death of Irene Klokow, 10 years of age, which occurred Thursday in the residence of the physician. It is the opinion of the police that a charge of murder will be lodged against Dr. Hart.

The girl died in a bedroom of the Hart residence in which she and the physician had been locked for several hours. It is the opinion of the authorities, based on the facts disclosed at the inquest held yesterday, that the girl was maltreated and then poisoned in an attempt to conceal the crime. After finding that it was impossible for the child to recover, the physician swallowed morphine and lay in an unconscious condition all of Thursday night and during the greater part of yesterday. Late yesterday afternoon he partially recovered and was brought to the city and locked up in the East Chicago avenue police station.

The girl was taken about a year ago from the Illinois industrial home by Dr. Hart and his wife, who desired a girl who could serve in a measure as companion for Mrs. Hart, who is but 17 years of age, and at the same time do light work about the house.

DUN'S TRADE BULLETIN.

Favorable Trade Reports Predominate—No Anxiety Regarding Future.

New York, Oct. 7.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says.

Favorable trade reports still predominate and there is no anxiety regarding the future. Higher temperature checked retail distribution of heavy wearing apparel and other seasonable merchandise, but preparations for unprecedented fall and winter trade continue without diminution.

Industrial activity increases, a large tonnage of new business assuring full time at the steel mills still further into next year; footwear shops show much heavier shipments than in 1904, and the textile factories are well engaged.

Strength prevails in the hide market, despite increased receipts of cattle and some deterioration owing to the longer hair that is a seasonable factor at northern points. Leather is strong.

Failures this week in the United States are 195 against 240 last week, 206 the preceding week and 222 the corresponding week last year. Failures in Canada number 22 against 21 last week, 34 the preceding week and 25 last year.

Looks Like Murder.

Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Alice Ingerick, 9 years old, was found murdered in the cellar of a farm house neare near here last night. Her mother, Mrs. Georgia Ingerick, was later discovered in a barn on the same farm suffering from severe wounds about the head.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

Excellent Conditions Prevail Everywhere—Large Yield of Corn Is Assured.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The weekly crop bulletin of the weather bureau summarizes crop conditions as follows:

The weather conditions of the week ending October 2, as a whole, were exceptionaly favorable to agricultural interests. Under the influence of warm and generally dry weather throughout the central valleys, lake region and Atlantic coast districts, late crops matured rapidly. Frosts occurred in the middle Rocky Mountain districts and in the upper Ohio valley, lower lake region and northern portion of the middle Atlantic states, but caused no serious injury.

Highly favorable weather prevailed throughout the principal corn states. An exceptionally large and fine yield of corn is now assured over much of the greater part of the corn belt.

A light apple crop is reported nearly everywhere, only a few unimportant apple-producing states indicating satisfactory yields.

Owing to the extensive prevalence of blight and rot in the principal potato producing states a light crop of potatoes of inferior quality is generally promised. The fall season has so far been exceptionally favorable for plowing and seeding in the central valleys, lake region and middle Atlantic states.

Columbus, O., Oct. 4.—This summary of conditions of crop in Ohio for the week ending October 2, has been issued by Section Director J. Warren Smith:

The first of the week was very cool and light frosts were general. The weather was very favorable for the ripening of corn, curing of tobacco and farm work. Very little damage was caused by the frost. Corn has matured very rapidly and most of the crop has been cut. The seeding of wheat has progressed very rapidly and the work has been completed in many districts. Pastures are in good condition, except in the extreme northwest and southeast. The cloverseed yield is poor in nearly all places. The weather has not been favorable for potatoes and the crop is poor.

ROBBERS' LOOT WAS SMALL

Passenger Train Held Up by Masked Men Near Seattle, Wash.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 4.—General Manager D. S. Elliott, of the Great Northern Express Co., made the following statement yesterday afternoon regarding the hold-up of the Overland passenger train Monday night near Seattle:

"Our train leaving Seattle for St. Paul Monday night at 8 o'clock was held up by masked men between Metum and Richmond Beach, about ten miles north of Seattle, on the shore of Puget Sound. Two men evidently got on the front of the mail car at a railroad crossing stop and very soon after went into the cab of the engine, held up the engineer and fireman, requiring the engineer to stop the train at a given point, where they were met by probably three others who joined the party and forced the engineer and fireman at the points of revolvers to require the express messenger to open the car door.

"The messenger was then forced to leave the car. Some of the robbers got into the car and wrecked the safe by the use of dynamite, using three charges, so we are informed. Such of the contents of the safe as were not damaged by the explosion were taken by the robbers, who, it is supposed, had a boat handy to carry them away. There was very little money taken, being all small remittances and amounting to less than $1,000. The passengers were not molested, no one was hurt and no damage done to the baggage."

THE INSURANCE INVESTIGATION

STARTLING FACTS BROUGHT OUT AT THE RESUMPTION OF THE PROBING COMMITTEE.

McCALL AN INTERESTING WITNESS

President of the New York Life Says Three-quarters of the Bills Affecting Life Insurance Companies Were in the Nature of Blackmail.

New York, Oct. 5.—That John R. Hegeman, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., borrowed $50,000 from the New York Life Insurance Co. at 1½ per cent. interest, a rate below the market rate, was brought out in the insurance investigation last week, but yesterday President John A. McCall, of the New York Life Insurance Co., testified that he in turn borrowed $75,000 from the Metropolitan at the same rate.

Mr. McCall resuming, was asked about a deposit to the credit of Judge Hamilton of $162,041 on September 1, 1905. Mr. McCall said the New York Life Insurance Co. had paid Mr. Hamilton no money, but suggested that part of it might have come from the state controller's office by reason of an assignment of tax moneys which would come to the judge by reason of his securing the repeal of the tax law which relieved the New York Life from payment of taxes.

President McCall also testified that the New York Life Insurance Co.'s expenses for legal services from June 1, 1900, to August 31, 1905, were $1,103,920. Of this amount Mr. McCall said Andrew Hamilton received $476,827.

Earlier in the day Mr. McCall, in detailing the general legislation work of Judge Hamilton and the counsel he employed, denied any knowledge of the legislative pool which was disclosed in the examination of Alfred W. Maine, auditor of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, last week. Mr. McCall on this question made the startling assertion that three-quarters of the bills affecting life insurance companies were in the nature of blackmail.

New York, Oct. 6.—That the astounding total of more than $2,600,000 has been paid as commissions by the Mutual Life Insurance Co. to two members of the family of Richard A. McCurdy, president of the company, and the promise of District Attorney Jerome that the insurance scandals certainly will be submitted later to an extraordinary grand jury, were the sensational developments in the insurance situation yesterday.

New York, Oct. 7.—The special legislative committee investigating the methods of insurance companies adjourned yesterday until Tuesday of next week. In yesterday's testimony the sensational development was when Mr. Hughes demanded the payroll of the executive officers of the company. This was produced and showed the salaries of these officers since 1877. For the year 1904 President McCurdy received $150,000, two vice presidents were paid $50,000 each, a second vice president $17,500, the third vice president $10,000 and the general manager $25,000, who this year will receive $30,000, and the treasurer $50,000.

MOB WANTS TO LYNCH HER.

Woman Charged with Torturing and Starving Her Stepson to Death.

Fort Scott, Kan., Oct. 5.—The county jail here was surrounded last night by men who insist that Mrs. Belle Riggins, her daughter Clarissa, aged 11 years, and her husband, George Riggins, held by the coroner's jury for the death of Riggins' 6-year-old son, by a former wife, should be lynched. The sheriff, expecting an assault on the jail, has, it is reported, fled with the prisoners. The jail is strongly guarded.

That the little boy was starved and tortured to death is specifically charged by the coroner's jury. The boy's 2-year-old sister was also cruelly treated and is at the point of death in a hospital here. While Mrs. Riggins' own children were well fed and kindly treated, the two step-children, according to the evidence presented to the grand jury, were literally starved.

MANY PEOPLE HOMELESS.

Fire in the Lumber District of Rhinelander, Wis., Caused Widespread Destruction.

Rhinelander, Wis., Oct. 5.—Fire in the lumber district of this town last evening destroyed property valued at $600,000 and rendered 400 people homeless. The fire started in the lumber yard of the Brown Brothers Lumber Co. and after sweeping that yard clean, spread to the Robbins Lumber Co. yards, which were entirely destroyed.

A high wind was blowing, which carried the fire into the residence district adjoining the lumber yards, destroying about 75 small dwelling houses. About 40,000,000 feet of lumber was destroyed.

Will Change the Work.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Secretary Taft will at the first opportunity take up with the president the proposition to transfer the control of the whole matter of the construction of the Panama canal from the war department to the state department.

Steamer Stranded.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 5.—The Italian steamer Citta Di Palermo, bound for New Orleans with a valuable cargo from Italy, lies stranded on the Diamond Shoals, one mile from Capt Hatteras life saving station.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PAINT.

Important Memorandum.—The painter is the most important factor in painting. A job complete, done by a good painter, with the best quality of paint, costing say $40.00 ($40.00 labor, $20.00 paint), will last five years. The same paint applied by a dauber ($20.00 labor, $20.00 paint) will last only two years. Thus the "per-year-cost" of the good painter's job is $12.00—the poor painter's, $20.00.

Above all, USE GOOD PAINT!

The oil! linseed oil! Just pure linseed is the "life"—the one great requisite of good paint for which there is no substitute—and the sure way to get the pure, fresh linseed oil is to buy the oil and separately. For every gallon of Kinloch Paint buy one gallon of linseed oil. This makes two gallons of paint, ready for use. You then know that the paint you're putting on your house is alive—"the genuine oil is in it," and paint is not paint unless it contains 50% of really pure oil. We will further explain the virtues of Kinloch Paint if you will call and see us.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY GENERAL SO DECLARES.

Says the Anthracite Region is for Plummer and That There is Nothing to Justify the Prediction of Berryites.

HARRISBURG, Oct. 10—Deputy Attorney General Fleitz has offered his services on the stump for the Republican state ticket. Mr. Fleitz has been through the state and has no doubt of of the election of J. Lee Plumber, Republican candidate for State Treasurer.

"The people of Philadelphia have been led into a false view of the state situation," said Mr. Fleitz. "They have been taught to believe that there is a hard fight on against J. Lee Plummer for State Treasurer. This is entirely erroneous.

"I can speak authoritatively when I say that the entire anthracite coal district of the state is for the Republican ticket as a whole. In 1901, when Coray was a candidate for State Treasurer against Harris, the two big coal counties Lackawanna, and Luzerne gave him a majority of 20,000, and yet Harris won out by a big vote. This year these same counties will give Plummer almost as big a majority as they gave Coray.

"In Pittsburg and the rest of Allegheny county I believe Plummer will receive anywhere from 30,000 to 40,000 majority over Berry. The Lincoln party, which is backing Berry, is making no headway outside of Delaware and Chester counties and a few other counties where local conditions are responsible for the split of the regular party.

"Of the Philadelphia situation there is nothing I can say further than what I said at the convention of the State League of Republican Clubs at Easton last month. Philadelphia can take care of itself without interference from up State. When there were local fights up-State we received no aid and expected none from Philadelphia, and that is the situation now reversed. But we believe the Republican organization there can take care of itself just as we did."

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. It is curing hundreds and thousands—some had faith and some didn't. Kodol will cure you if medicine can cure you, whether you have faith in it or not. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

ALL REFORM PLEDGES HAVE BEEN BROKEN

Mayor Weaver Orders Police and Firemen to Work Against the Republican Ticket.

TAXPAYERS ARE INDI NT

Gordon, a Democrat, Directs the Pay Roll For Politics and the Wanamaker Newspapers Suppress or Distort the News to Suit the Purposes of a Guerilla Combine.

[Special Correspondence.]
Philadelphia, Oct. 10.

With the mask removed from the so-called reform party in this city, Republicans everywhere cannot but be disgusted with the revelations of hypocrisy, treachery and deceit, and they are going to the polls to cast an emphatic vote of condemnation of the new political combine which is seeking to wreck the Republican party in Philadelphia.

Mayor Weaver is no longer taken seriously in his public statements and he has ceased to have the respect of men who are familiar with the political intrigue which has been under way in this city since Weaver deserted the Republican colors and took his entire administration over to the Wanamaker-Gordon-Van Valkeuburg camp, which has for years been the refuge of insurgents and party traitors of all classes and conditions.

A Deep Laid Scheme.

The City Party which was started by some well-meaning citizens, who were sincerely desirious of reform, has been captured by the Wanamaker-Gordon-Van Valkenburg combine, and it no longer stands for anything which its original promoters contemplated. Like the Lincoln Party in the state, the City Party has become an asset of Wanamakerism and is being used in a desperate campaign to disrupt the Republican party to further the game which the Wanamaker politicians have in mind for the future.

James Gay Gordon, Democrat, for governor, and John Wanamaker, of doubtful political standing, for United States senator, is the program on the cards of the men who are manipulating the City Party in this city and the Lincoln Party in Pennsylvania.

As in previous campaigns when the Republican party was attacked in the rear by Wanamaker guerrillas and attempts were made to defeat good Republicans, regularly and honestly nominated in accordance with the rules and regulations of the party, the rank and file of the Republican organization stand true and steadfast and are prepared to beat back the insurgent crew to defeat and dismay at the coming election.

In the other Wanamaker campaigns the Republican party was confronted with the most lavish expenditure of money to promote dissension and discord in its ranks and to strengthen the Democratic allies of these insurgents.

A Wonderful Saving.

The largest Methodist Church in Geogia, used 32 gallons of L. & M., mixed with 24 gallons of oil, thus making paint cost about $1.20 per gallon. They calculated to use 100 gallons of other paint. Saved abont $80.00 and also get a big donation of L. & M. Dealers gladly sell L. & M., because their customers call for it and say they used it 12, 14 and even 30 years ago.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for linseed oil, which you do in ready-for use paints

Buy oil fresh from the barrel at 60 cents per gallon, and mix it with L. & M. Paint.

It makes paint cost about $1.20 per gallon. Sold by Harry S. Lloyd.

Letter to C, J. Howard.

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: We know what the paints are all made of, you know; we have to. In Wilson, N. C., are two dealers. One of 'em thinks he can't sell paint for more than $1 a gallon; the other won't have such stuff in his store—sells Devoe lead-and-zinc, of course.

The $1 paint is adulterated 76 per cent.; Devoe is all lead and zinc and linseed oil, with as little good dryer as possible. A gallon Devoe has in it a little more paint than four gallons of the other. A gallon Devoe will cover as much as four of the other. Who wants to pay wages for painting four gallons for one?

How much is Devoe lead-and-zinc worth in that town?

Yours truly

Full of Tragic Meaning.

Are these lines from J. H. Simmons, of Cacey, Ia. Think what might have resulted from his terrible cough if he had not taken the medicine about which he writes: "I had a fearful cough that disturbed my night's rest. I tried every thing, but nothing would relieve it, until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which completely cured me." Instantly relieves and permanently cures all throat and lung diseases; prevents grip and pneumonia. At L. Taggart druggist; guaranteed; 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

You would better get a move on
Or you'll need a parachute
For convenience in falling

And a pgd beneath, to boot.
Toot, toot!
Just listen to the brute!
If I'd a turnip handy
Or some other passe fruit
I would hurl it with mush pleasure,
Be delighted out of measure
If my aim were only lucky
And it caused him pain acute.
Toot!
Toot, toot!
It's against the law to shoot,
But I know I'd give a trifle
For a good repeating rifle
But without it I am helpless—

A Reckless Shopper.

A new story is being told of a married couple for which the husdand had been accustomed to doing all the buying. The husband being an industrious fellow, finally got so much business on hand to attend to that it became necessary to turn the buying for the family over to the wife. One morning he told her to stop at the butcher shop and get a shin bone for soup. She asked what a shin bone was. The husband lifted his trousers and indicated the portion of the anatomy that produced it. But when the wife arrived at the butcher shop she had forgotten the name of the bone wanted, and to inform the butcher had to lift her skirts and show her shins. When she returned home she told her forgetfulness and how she had to show her shins to let the butcher know what she wanted. The husband heaved a relieved sigh and said: "Well, my dear, I'm glad I did not send you for a rib roast."—Houtzdale Citizen.

FRIENDLY WARNING.

No Need to be Alarmed About Stomach Troubles if you Use Mi-o-na—Cure Guaranterd by L. Taggart.

The most frequent affection of the stomach is catarrh, as the delicate membrane which lines the stomach is easily irritated by harmful food or overeating. Keep a strict watch for the first symptoms of stomach trouble. Take this friendly warning in the spirit in which it is given and profit by it.

Shortness of breath, black specks before the eyes, furred tongue, dizziness, belching of gases or sour food, weakness and debility are all signs of catarrh of the stomach. There is no use to be unduly alarmed, for this disease can be cured by Mi-o-na. It is the only remedy that strikes at the root of the evil and actually cures the disease.

It does not contain opium in any form, acids, alcohol, or any other harmful drug or chemical. It is a pure remedy that heals the irritated mucous membrane, stimulates the solar plexus, and aids digestion,

Ask L. Taggart to show you the guarantee under which he sells Mi-o-na. It costs but 50 cents a box, and your money is returned if it does not help you.

THE HORN OF PLENTY.

Hark! 'Tis a blast of the bugle of peace,
It sounds from the farmhouse gate;
The farmer hears it and waves his hat,
He promised not to be late.
So over the meadow and over the hill
He hurries in eager haste,
"For," he says to himself, "it would be a sin
To let good victuals waste."
And he's hungry, too; he's been at work
Since the early hours of morn,
And the music he loves the best to hear
Is the blast of the dinner horn.

He sees in the farmhouse doorway framed
A woman of ample girth;
"Mother" and "wife" are her two names,
The dearest and best on earth.
She's changed a bit since he knew her first—
Then her waist was round and slim,
But Time, the relentless, has not failed
To steadily challenge him.
He steps no longer a gallant gay,
As he did in youth's fair morn,
But soberly marches with patient stride
To the tune of the dinner horn.
—Mrs. M. L. Payne, in Chicago Record-Herald.

A ROSE OF NORMANDY

By WILLIAM R. A. WILSON

"How know you it was I? Could not any one of the numerous female friends you must have at court have done as much?"

"True, mademoiselle, but they would not. Court friends are but friends if all goes well with one. When adversity sets in they speedily forget you. You will pardon me if I say that I knew of no one save yourself who would show such disinterested kindness to a man in need of aid. Besides, I chanced to see at Quebec a note addressed to Frontenac that he said he had received from you. The handwriting was the same as that which was handed me after the duel."

In spite of herself, Renee felt a thrill of pleasure as she heard the expression of his high opinion of her. This, however, was instantly replaced by a feeling of chagrin, as she realized from his last words it had been after all but a surmise on his part.

"Grant, then, that it was I," she said. "It was but repaying a debt I owed you. It was because of me that the quarrel originated. I would have done as much for any man. We are then quits."

"I dared not hope it was for any personal reason," replied Tonti, sadly. "But tell me one thing, mademoiselle, and I shall weary you no further. What have I done to merit the disdain you have shown me ever since we met in New France? Of what wrong or discourtesy have I been guilty?"

"No wrong have you done me," was the animated reply. "If you will know I shall tell you. It is because of the disappointment I can but feel to find that I have aided one so unworthy; because of the shame at recalling that those lips that have uttered such false vows have pressed this hand. If you seek further reason, go to your wife and child so cruelly abandoned in Paris, find Madame Bizard, ask them. Meanwhile, know that your presence is distasteful, that I scorn to receive your attentions; in fact, that I hate you!" and Renee pressed her hand to her heart, that throbbed "I love you" in spite of her words.

Tonti gave a start of surprise and murmured, "That woman again!" Then gathering himself up proudly, he replied: "What evil deeds or crimes you may impute to me I know not. I shall, however, continue in my duty to my friend, and not desist in my endeavors for your comfort and safety. I thank you for this interview;" and gathering up his load, he bowed and left the spot, angry with himself at finding that in spite of her wrath she was magnificent, and realizing how deeply he loved her.

Within a few days all was ready for their departure. The men sailed away in the vessel laden with stores and provisions, while Tonti embarked with the two women, Pompon, and the Mohegan warrior in a large canoe, and, turning its prow southward soon crossed the end of the lake in safety to its southern shore. Toward Renee he maintained the same attitude that he had before their recent interview. Again was her comfort sought in every way. When the wind blew strong or the weather threatened, a stop was made and they delayed until the skies had cleared and the water was once more calm. Game was not abundant, but fish were easily caught. Occasionally, when this diet became unpalatable, a camp was built, and several days were spent at rest, while the Indian made a trip toward the interior for venison or bear. No savages were seen, and Tonti hoped to be able to pass by the country of the Iroquois without meeting them. Over one-half of the distance was traversed without mishap, and they were opposite to that portion of the country inhabited by the Senecas, the westernmost nation of the Iroquois confederacy, when disaster overtook them.

They were proceeding along close to the shore because of the slight roughness of the water, and were making all haste in order to get over this stage of their journey as rapidly as possible, when they suddenly struck against the ragged edge of a rock just hidden beneath the surface of the water. Such was the force of the blow that a large rent was made in the bottom of the canoe, which quickly filled, careened to one side, and threw its occupants and contents into the lake. On coming to the surface Tonti beheld Pompon (who could not swim) clinging to the slippery surface of the tiny point of rock that had done the mischief, the canoe sunk, and the two women, whose clothing served to buoy them up, struggling wildly. With a shout to the Mohegan to save the nun, who was nearest him, Tonti himself struck out for Renee. Although the shore was some 200 yards distant, there was nothing to do but to swim for it. He seized the girl at the waist with one hand, while he strove with his legs and the remaining arm to urge her toward a place of safety. It was hard work, however, as the clothing that he wore was made of skins and soon became very heavy. Renee, too, frightened at the sudden plunge, struggled to free herself from his grasp. He finally calmed her, and telling her to rest her hand on his shoulder, he was able to make good headway.

"Why did you not let the Indian save me?" she murmured.

"Because I, not he, am responsible for your safety," was the reply.

Soon they reached the land. Tonti was much exhausted by the struggle, but supported his fair companion to a dry spot on the sand and then turned his attention toward the rest. Pompon still clung to his precarious perch. The Mohegan and the nun, however, were in a bad plight. Terror seemed to have bereft her of reason, and she clung to her rescuer with a firm grasp, impeding his progress. Tonti saw that they would never be able to reach shore under the existing circumstances, shouted that he was coming, and, after throwing off his well-soaked coat, plunged to their rescue.

It was time that some help arrived, for the nun had clasped the man about his neck with a grasp that he was unable to shake off. Before Tonti had covered half the distance they sank from view. They soon reappeared,

"WHY DID YOU NOT LET THE INDIAN SAVE ME?"

however, struggling anew. They were well-nigh exhausted and remained on the surface but a moment. Tonti called encouragingly, but they did not hear him, and sank again. As he reached the spot where they had disappeared, the head of the Mohegan arose from the depths, but he was alone. Breathless and half drowned he was, and Tonti had to support him to enable him to regain his strength. He soon learned that the nun had maintained her grip on the Indian's neck until they had sunk the second time and had only released her hold when they touched the bottom. Tonti then dived, but to no purpose, and yet a second time; she was not to be found.

Feeling his own strength beginning to fail, and knowing that the strong undercurrents had probably swept her body from that locality, he turned his attention to Pompon, who was making vigorous signals of distress, leaving the Mohegan behind to swim about and watch for the nun's reappearance. He reached Pompon, who had been occupied in slipping from the rock and clambering up again, just in time, and with him in tow turned toward the shore. The Indian soon relieved him of this weight, for he was fast reaching a condition when he would need help himself. As it was, had the shore been a dozen yards farther off he could not have reached it. He managed, however, to touch bottom and crawl out, throwing himself upon the sand, utterly exhausted. Renee, who had watched his brave efforts, ran to him, and loosening the sodden clothing about his neck and chest as best she might, chafed his hands anxiously. Forgotten for a moment was the past with the lies whispered by Madame Bizard into her unwilling ear, and she saw only her lover and hero, engaged, as when they first met, in bravely defending and rescuing those in distress; saw him, as she had dreamed of him so many times before, boldly battling for others, recking not of the tremendous odds against him; saw him victorious, yet vanquished. And as he fell her woman's heart beat fast with sympathy and alarm. Her touch seemed to invigorate him, for in a few moments he opened his eyes, breathed deeply, and murmured, "Grace a Dieu, you are safe! But the nun is lost; I did my best."

Renee as soon as she saw that he had revived dropped his hand and contented herself with telling him of her appreciation of his superhuman efforts, assuring him that she was unhurt, and although lamenting the loss of her companion, expressed her thanks that the remainder were saved.

They were all indeed in a sorry plight. Not daring to light a fire, if they had had the means with which to do so, for fear of attracting the attention of the savages, they were unable to dry their clothes. Luckily the sand was warm, and by lying on it they were able to gather sufficient heat for comfort. Aside from their proximity to the dreaded Iroquois, other dangers threatened them. All of their guns, ammunition, and provisions had been lost in the wreck of the canoe; they were thus without food and with the prospect of a long weary march before them. After consulting among themselves, it was determined to make for Fort Niagara as rapidly as possible. Akiesko climbed the nearest tall tree to get a view of the surrounding country. He could make out no signs of Indians. They remained where they were for a day in order to regain their strength. During this time the Indian was able to set a trap and caught a rabbit, which he brought back in triumph. This had to be eaten raw. It was not a palatable dish for Renee, but she recognized the necessity of fortifying herself against the fatigues of the journey and bravely ate as much as she could. A few berries were also found.

They made but a short distance the first day, as Renee, unaccustomed to walking far, soon became foot-sore. They followed the shore of the lake as closely as possible, both because of the easier walking found there and also to keep near a supply of fresh water. At night they sought shelter beneath a tree, and each of the men took turns in watching, while Renee, wrapped in Tonti's coat, slept soundly after the fatigue of the day. They proceeded thus for a week, scantily supplied with food, although Akiesko exerted all of his skill and ingenuity in his endeavors to entrap small game or catch an occasional fish, and they had progressed so far that Tonti began to feel easier as to their ultimate safety. One day they were resting about noon beneath a tall fir-tree when Pompon was suddenly seized with the desire to climb to the top after a possible nest that he thought he spied high up among the branches. He had hardly reached the upper limbs when Tonti, glancing up, was attracted by the vigorous signs he was making. They were signs of alarm and caution. The rest immediately became silent and waited. Within a moment there emerged into the little clearing near which they stood a band of some two score warriors, evidently a hunting party from their dress. At the same instant they caught sight of the little shipwrecked group beneath the tree and advanced toward them with a shout. Tonti stepped forward and made signs of peace. The Indians proved to be a band of Senecas on their way to the lake to fish. Their leader stepped a pace nearer than the rest, and, addressing Tonti, said with a grunt, "Who are you?"

Tonti replied: "We are friends of the great Onontio of Quebec. He sends his greetings to his children and bids you aid us. We have lost our way and ask you to help us. If you will furnish us with food and a guide to his house by the Great Falls he will reward you."

"The hand of Onontio is weak, and he sometimes sleeps. We have not seen him for a long time; perhaps he is dead. He does not love us or he would not send the black gowns among us to bewitch our children, nor the traders who cheat us of our skins. If you were his friends he would not have allowed you to start upon so long a journey without providing you with food and guns. My white brother lies. The French at the house beside the Great Falls are not our friends, for they have made our young men drunk with brandy and then killed them. I can do nothing for you; you must return with us to our village. There the great chief Wolf, he whom you French call 'Le Loup,' will decide."

Resistance was useless, as during this harangue the savages had scattered and now completely surrounded the party. A seeming friendly compliance was the best course, so Tonti replying said:

"We will go with you to your village and there smoke the peace pipe with your chief. He will restore our strength and go with us to the Great Falls and receive his reward."

The party then took up their return march. Tonti and his companions were not molested in any way, but were treated with all kindness. He kept near Renee, who, affrighted at the sight of so many half-naked redmen, seemed to forget her former antipathy and imperceptibly moved closer to him. Pompon, unseen, was left behind, sheltered by the branches of the giant fir.

CHAPTER XX.

IN WHICH SOME DISCOVERIES ARE MADE.

The advance of the party was not rapid, because of the inability of the captives to make long marches. The leader was evidently a subordinate chief who feared to ill-treat his white prisoners lest the responsibility of having provoked hostilities with the French should be laid at his door. At night a special shelter was provided for Renee, while Tonti and the Mohegan were permitted to rest on the ground near by. Four of the number were detailed to procure food, which they did in great abundance. An offer was even made to provide a sort of bark litter for Renee, swung from the shoulders of two of the braves. She refused this, however, as it would have separated her from Tonti, whom she silently appealed to more and more for protection. He noticed her changed demeanor, but attributed it to the fact that he was La Salle's friend and the only white man present. After the little camp was still at night he heard the call of a distant schreech-owl that he recognized as the signal of the ever-faithful Pompon, who was evidently following on their trail. On their journey to Quebec, after escaping from the Hurons they had devised a code of signs in case they should ever be separated. The number of hoots corresponded to a letter of the alphabet, the whole preceded by three series of cries of three calls each. Thus Tonti was able to spell out during the night the communication intended for him. "C-o-u-r-a-g-e," came the cheering message, "I s-h-a-l-l f-i-n-d m-e-a-n-s f-o-r y-o-u-r e-s-c-a-p-e."

Six days they journeyed thus. At length on the morning of the seventh the far-off barking of dogs was heard, and the prisoners knew they were approaching their destination. About noon they came upon a clearing about ten acres in extent, situated on a plateau overlooking a beautiful lake some half-dozen miles long. On this plateau about 60 dwellings of varying sizes were scattered irregularly. Their advent was heralded by the yelping of a horde of naked children, who surrounded them, followed by a swarm of Indian curs, who barked vociferously. The warriors bestowed a succession of cuffs and kicks when they approached too near, and led the captives to one of the smaller lodges, which was unoccupied.

The sides of this house were formed of a double row of tall saplings planted firmly in the ground, whose tops were bent over and lashed together at the top to form the roof. The many interstices of the branches served for the escape of the smoke from a fire which smouldered on the ground in the middle of the floor. Over all were spread sheets of bark like the clapboards of a civilized dwelling. From a number of cross poles near the roof were suspended a quantity of skins, clothing, pieces of smoked meat, and rows of dried ears of maize. Around the interior, about three feet from the ground, ran a shelf or scaffolding, covered with a few mats and skins, which evidently served for sleeping places for the inmates. Here in an atmosphere rendered almost unbearable by the heat and smoke of the fire, the three prisoners were left to await the return of the head chief and his men, who were off on a hunting expedition for the day. A guard at the door prevented any intrusion, and the weary travelers were left in peace. Tonti managed to collect a sufficient number of skins to curtain off one end of the room and form a soft pile on which Renee could rest. She received this thoughtful attention without thanks, but yet without the resistance with which she had formerly met Tonti's kindly offices.

Struck Through.

Herr Argelander was one of Germany's most distinguished astronomers. He was greatly loved and admired by the younger generation of students, both German and foreign, many of whom were proud of having had him as their preceptor. Among them says Dr. Newcomb in his "Reminiscences," was Dr. B. A. Gould, who loved to tell this story of the professor's wit: When Dr. Gould was in Germany as a student, he had abundant hair but no beard. On his return there from America, years later, he had grown a beard, and had become completely bald. He entered Argelander's study unannounced, and the professor looked blankly up. "Don't you know me, Herr Professor?" asked the visitor. The professor looked more closely. "It's Gould!" he cried, at last. "It is Gould mit his hair struck through!"—Youth's Companion.

The Financier Scored.

The late Baron de Hirsch, the Jewish financier, was dining in company with a certain prince, who made no secret of his venemous antipathy to the Jews. Courtesy proved no barrier to the outflow of his spleen.

Remarking on the tour he had made in Turkey, he said he had been favorably impressed with two of its customs:

"All Jews and dogs that are caught are immediately killed."

The baron, with smiling sang-froid, immediately relieved the scandalized consternation of the other guests with the bland rejoinder:

"How fortunate you and I don't live there!"—London M. A. P.

Fixing Her Status.

A bachelor farmer a little past his prime, finding himself hard up, thought the best thing he could do would be to marry a neighbor of his, who was reported to have some bawbees. Meeting with no obstacles to his wooing he soon got married. One of the first purchases he made with part of her money was a horse. When he brought it home he called out his wife to see it. After admiring it she said: "Well, Sam, if it hadna been for my siller it wadna hae been there." "Jenny," Sam replied, "if it had not been for yer siller ye wadna hae been here yersel."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Order.

The chairlady rapped sharply.

"It ought not to be necessary for the chair to remind members," she said severely, "that under our rules of order, to say nothing of common courtesy, only one member may be silent at a time. Any member who becomes silent at the same time that another member is silent is distinctly out of order."

The ladies of the club visibly cringed under this merited rebuke. Many of them flushed to the roots of their hair, and several there were who burst into tears.—Life.

Man of Nerve.

"Myrtilla," said the old gentleman sharply, "that young man you had in the parlor last night is dull of comprehension. All I had to do was cough when the other chaps remained too late and they would take the hint and depart. Did this one say anything when I coughed last night?"

"Yes," replied the beautiful daughter, "he said the next time he called he was going to bring you a bottle of cough sirup."—Newark News.

DOUBLE TRANSMIGRATION.

Dog Suffers for a Defunct Man and Man Gets It for Dead Mule.

The man who had come down the steps of the city hall had found a small dog under his feet, and given the animal a kick, relates the Washington Star. The owner came forward and demanded:

"Sir, why did you kick my dog?"

"Because I believe in transmigration," replied the other.

"What has that to do with it?"

"Two years ago I knew a mean man. He died. Your dog looks so much like him that I believe it is a case of transmigration. I always wanted to kick the man, and, finding your dog under my feet, I could not resist the impulse."

"Sir," said the dog-owner, "I once knew a mule. He was the crankiest, meanest critter on the face of the earth. He died. The minute I set eyes on you, I knew that it was a case of transmigration. I always wanted to wallop that mule, but never got the chance. It has come at last. And now—"

And when the crowd hauled them apart there were three black eyes and a bitten ear between the two of them to prove that the theory of transmigration works like a double-barreled shotgun.

Displacement.

"Do you think that the automobile will displace the horse?" asked the conversational young woman.

"It will," answered the nervous young man, as he gazed down the road, "if it ever hits him."—Washington Star.

Cured Her Rheumatism.

Deep Valley, Pa., Oct. 2nd (Special.)—There is deep interest in Green county over the cure of the little daughter of I. N. Whipkey of Rheumatism. She was a great sufferer for five or six years, and nothing seemed to do her any good till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. She began to improve almost at once, and now she is cured and can run and play as other children do. Mr. Whipkey says:

"I am indeed thankful for what Dodd's Kidney Pills have done for my daughter; they saved her from being a cripple perhaps for life."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have proved that Rheumatism is one of the results of diseased Kidneys. Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid in the blood. If the Kidneys are right there can be no Uric Acid in the blood and consequently no Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the Kidneys right.

Stirring Testimonial.

It was a thankful Alma wife that sent the following recommendation to a patent medicine firm: "Gentlemen, before taking your medicine I was too weak to spank my baby, but now I can lick my husband."—Detroit Free Press.

Announcement is made by the Rock Island-Frisco Systems of the inauguration of a daily through tourist car St. Louis to Los Angeles, via Frisco Line to Medora, Kansas, thence Rock Island-El Paso Line to California.

This provides an entirely new tourist car route to the Golden State, and with the installation of this car the Rock Island has no less than ten through tourist lines between the East and California. These cars start from Chicago, St. Louis, St. Paul and Minneapolis and run through via either the Rock Island's Southern Route by way of El Paso, or Scenic Route by way of Colorado. This frequent and comprehensive service is provided with a view to adequately meeting the demand for tourist accommodations under the very low rates effective in September and October.

"GENERAL" FOR 25 CENTS

The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway is distributing a very beautiful lithograph, 18x25 inches, of the famous engine "General" which is now on exhibition in the Union Depot, Chattanooga, Tenn. The picture is ready for framing and will be mailed to any address for twenty-five cents. The "General" was captured by the Andrews' Raiders at Big Shanty (now Kennesaw), Georgia, on the Western & Atlantic Railroad, April 12th, 1862, and was recaptured by Conductor W. A. Fuller, Anthony Murphy and others, near Ringgold, Ga., after an exciting chase of about ninety miles. It was one of the most thrilling exploits of the Civil War. The object of the raid was to burn the bridges on the Western & Atlantic Railroad and cut off the Confederate Army from its base of supplies. A booklet, "The Story of the General," sent free upon application.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Cold Sweats, Twitching Nerves and Weakness Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nature punishes every infraction of her laws, and careless habits easily lead to the condition described by Mr. William Browne, of No. 1019 Lincoln street, St. Joseph, Mo. Mr. Browne is an expert tinner in the employ of the National Biscuit Co. He gives the following account of a trying experience:

"In the spring of 1902," he says, "while I was regularly working at my trade, I grew somewhat careless in my habits of eating and drinking, and finally found that my appetite was fickle, a bad taste lingered in my mouth, my nerves twitched and were beyond my control, my kidneys were out of order and cold sweats would break out over my body at odd times. Perhaps, while I stood talking with some one, this trembling of the limbs, and profuse sweating, and a severe chill would seize me. I became alarmed at my condition and, having read an endorsement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I got a box and began to use them. They helped me at once. After I had used one box the twitching of the nerves, the trouble with the stomach and the cold sweats stopped and have not reappeared, and my appetite is good. I have told all my friends that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured me and I recommend them to everybody."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured Mr. Browne because nothing can strengthen the nerves except good rich, red blood—and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. They don't act on the bowels. They don't bother with mere symptoms. They drive from the blood the cause of anæmia, indigestion, nervous disorders, general weakness and the troubles of growing girls and women.

The pills are guaranteed to be free from opiates or harmful drugs. Sold by all druggists, or by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

MOLECULES OF MIRTH.

"Waitah, what kind of shell-fish have you?" "Only eggs, sir!"

"Would I like to live my life over?" said the sober-faced man. "No, sir; it's bad enough to think it over."

"Who is it that robs us while we are asleep?" asked the teacher, trying to get the class to spell the word "burglar." "De gas meter," shouted the boys in unison.

"Think of leaving something behind," urged the insurance agent, "to provide comforts and even luxuries for the little ones." "Uh, huh," responded the sarcastic citizen. "Whose little ones?"

"What is butter to-day?" asked the possible customer. "Butter is butter to-day," answered the waggish grocer, with a shriek of laughter. "Glad to hear it," said the other, cheerfully; "the last I got here was axle-grease."

The young mother gazed upon her first born and wept convulsively. They appealed to her to know why her great grief. "Alas!" she wailed, as with intensest agony, "I'm afraid he will wear side whiskers when he grows up!"

SOME WHY DON'T YOU'S.

Why don't you take more pains to be self-sacrificing? Time is rapidly passing.

Why don't you send away that little gift you have been planning to send? Mere kind intentions never accomplish any good.

Why don't you speak out the encouraging words that you have in your thoughts? Unless you express them they are of no use to others.

Why don't you make the promised visit to that invalid? She is looking for you day after day, and "hope deferred maketh the heart sick."

Why don't you answer your friend's letter at once? It will have a double value if written promptly, and will take no more time than by and by.

Why don't you create around you an atmosphere of happiness and helpfulness, so that all who come in touch with you may be made better? Is not this possible?

Slave of Custom.

On one day in the year the free and independent French citizen is a slave, the slave of custom. It is the day the shooting season opens. He may not care for sport; no matter, he must sally forth or lose caste irretrievably.

NOTICED IT.

A Young Lady from New Jersey Put Her Wits to Work.

"Coffee gave me terrible spells of indigestion, which, coming on every week or so, made my life wretched until some one told me that the coffee I drank was to blame. That seemed nonsense, but I noticed these attacks used to come on shortly after eating, and were accompanied by such excruciating pains in the pit of the stomach that I could only find relief by loosening my clothing and lying down.

"If circumstances made it impossible for me to lie down, I spent hours in great misery.

"I refused to really believe it was the coffee until finally I thought a trial would at least do no harm, so I quit coffee in 1901 and began on Postum. My troubles left entirely and convinced me of the cause.

"Postum brought no discomfort, nor did indigestion follow its use. I have had no return of the trouble since I began to drink Postum. It has built me up, restored my health and given me a new interest in life. It certainly is a joy to be well again." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE FARMING WORLD

WAYS OF HANDLING MANURE

One Farmer Who Has Proved to His Own Satisfaction That the Spreader Pays.

I am able to give correct figures in regard to manure spreaders, as I hire all my work done on my frams and keep very close account of labor-saving devices. I have investigated this manure business for the past two years carefully, and have corresponded with nearly all the experiment stations on this one subject of keeping manure and applying it. I believe my way of handling manure is about right.

I wheel to the shed during the five months I cannot use the spreader to spread it on the fields direct from stable. I can load, draw to field half a a mile distant, unload and return to barn at manure shed in 30 minutes, one man doing all the work. It would take 30 minutes longer to do the same work without the spreader. For this reason a man will and can work harder in putting on the load if he knows he can sit down on a good seat and ride for ten minutes, and rest while unloading.

I had rather have one load of manure (so far as results are concerned) unloaded with the spreader than three loads unloaded by hand, on grass stubble or meadows. It is more evenly distributed to the grass roots and covers as much ground, if not more. My spreader carries about 50 bushels at a load, drawn by three horses. Thirty acres of meadows are covered each year with my dairy and horses' output of manure. I use the fine manure from the horses for an absorbent back of the cows, wheel it into the shed and let it lie there and decay until October. It is then spread just before the fall rains come, so that the manure will not dry up on the ground by the hot sun. Being put under a good shed with tight sides, without a cement cellar, the manure does not leach any to speak of. I cannot speak or write enough about the manure spreader, this farmer concludes in his letter to the Orange Judd Farmer. Every farmer that has ten cows should have one.

DAIRYING WITH SILAGE.

It Is the Only Successful Method—Getting the Best Results from the Silo.

The dairy farmer who undertakes to carry his operations through the winter without silage has uphill work all the time. The prosperous dairy farmer seeds down 20 or 25 acres every year, keeps his straw under cover and grows a good field of corn for silage every year. The solution of the question of making cheap milk lies in the silo, for, in the opinion of the Farmers' Review, good corn silage is undoubtedly the best and cheapest milk-producing food that has yet been grown. To get best results it must be made from well-matured corn, and intelligently fed. The cutting is very important, more so than most people imagine. In the first place good, well-built cutters must be employed, for after the corn is cut in the field, it should be put through the cutter and into the silo as rapidly as possible. The shorter the lengths are cut the closer they pack in the silo; hence use a machine which has ample capacity to do the cutting in short lengths and do it fast. Just keep in mind that you are handling green stuff, with the object of putting it up green. It is no trick to make good silage—here is the recipe: Cut the corn when the kernels are well glazed; fill the silo as rapidly as possible; cut the stalks into pieces, say an inch long—shorter would be better; tramp down the corners well; see that the silo is perfectly air-tight—then you have it.

DAIRY WISDOM.

When calves are kept in the stable, they should be given, now and then, a piece of sod with the earth attached.

Why calves should crave this sort of thing is hard to explain, but they do and it should be supplied.

If it is a heifer, it will never make a perfectly docile cow. If a bull, it will be wild and vicious.

What is the use of weighing the milk of each cow? Simply to find out which cow is the thief, carrying the bag, with nothing in it—for you.

A dairyman with a small herd of cows can well afford to build a silo—and increase his herd and his profits.—Farm Journal.

If any cows are about to calve during the hot days of July, they should be kept in the stable during the heat of the day, at least, and some dry food given to them.

Fertilizer from Animals.

A prominent agriculturist estimates the fertilizing element contributed by each horse annually at $27; cattle, $19 each; hogs, $12 each, and sheep at two dollars each. Hogs give the greatest returns for the amount invested.

Never allow a cow to calve in the pasture. The young thing in such cases partakes of the wild, and it is never overcome.

Now begin paying attention to Miss Pullet.

RESCUING AN ORCHARD.

A Practical Lesson in the Cultivation of One That Does Not Pay.

What is to be done with the old orchard? This is a question which many men are asking. Will it pay to do anything? Is it not better to cut down the trees, clear the ground and make use of it for other purposes?

Undoubtedly there are some orchards that might better never have been set. The soil is not such as is fitted for them, the varieties were poorly selected, the stock was poor or the man who set them was not adapted to fruit growing. As a result the orchard is a failure and always has been.

But many an orchard has been made good, though the prospects were discouraging at the first. One which I have in mind could hardly have been more unfavorable for a beginning. It was set on a gravelly soil, which is not considered good for apples. The trees were of the poorest. They were, in fact, nothing better than refuse stock from a nursery, such as ought to go as brush. This was the beginning.

For nearly 30 years the trees stood and took the chances with the grain and hay crops. Of course they had the worst of it and at the end of that time there were many vacant places in the orchard. The trees that remained were small and sickly looking. As for fruit there never had been much. The orchard had been one that "didn't pay."

Fortunately a man with an idea then took charge of the farm. He plowed the orchard and sowed rye. In place of cutting the grain and drawing it off the field he used it for a hog pasture. After a year the ground was again plowed and sowed. The pigs grew up and went their appointed way, leaving the orchard better than they found it.

The trees responded readily to this treatment. They made a fine growth, and after four or five years began to produce apples. Then the orchard "paid." It paid the best of any field on the farm. There were crops on the "off" years, when other orchards were nearly barren.

Conditions were certainly discouraging enough. It is no exaggeration to say that the majority of neglected orchards offer better prospects than this.

But there was one thing in its favor. The varieties were mostly good.

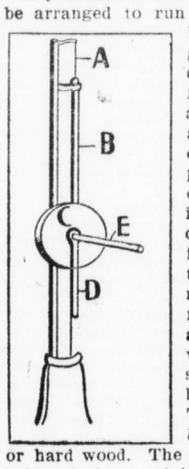
What was done in this case can be done in many another. If the orchard has been long in sod it can be plowed up this fall after the trees have stopped growing, then sown to rye. Next spring begin pruning and set the hogs at work. The pigs will do the cultivating and will pay for the privilege.

Whatever may be said about this method, says the Farmers' Voice, and it is not above criticism, it is at least a cheap and convenient way of treating this vexed question. There may be ways that are better, but certainly this is not so bad as to leave the orchard to care for itself. The same treatment would make many orchards a source of profit that now are an annoyance to their owners and far from a credit to the farms.

POWER FROM A WINDMILL.

Attachment Which Will Run the Grindstone, the Bone Cutter and Other Light Machinery.

If you have a windmill it can easily be arranged to run the grindstone, bone cutter, feed grinder, etc. The cut, reproduced from the Farm and Home, shows a good device to convert the perpendicular motion of the windmill into a horizontal one. The bar, b, is connected to the windmill pitman, a, so that it may be attached at will. The wheel, c, and shaft, e, should be of iron or steel. The short pitman, b, may be of iron or hard wood. The axle bar, d, which holds shaft, e, rigid, permitting the pitman, b, to revolve wheel, c, should be of heavy iron, firmly secured, and braced to pump at platform.



Treating Pear Blight.

"The methods which we have used successfully in controlling pear blight in the east," says Prof. Waite, in American Fruits, "is that of cutting out the holdover pear blight in the fall. Pear blight, like smallpox, is contagious, and that should be thoroughly understood. We examine minutely each tree in an orchard and cut off all infected limbs or twigs. We disinfect the pruning knives used in the process, and after the operation we disinfect the wound. It resembles in this regard a surgical wound. But even this method, calling for a most painstaking examination of the trees each fall and again at blossoming time, cannot be said to be successful in eradicating the disease entirely. So far we have succeeded in placing the disease under control only in small territories."

Tons of Oleo.

In the fiscal year for 1903 71,804,102 pounds of oleo were made in this country. Last year the figures were 48,071,480 pounds—this year 49,880,982 pounds. The largest increase is in colored oleo—there being but 153,754 pounds more of uncolored made this year.

We have a warm spot in our heart for the good old "tried and faithful" hired man. Treat him right.

We do not need new fruits as we do better culture of the old ones.

OPERATIONS AVOIDED

Two Grateful Letters from Women Who Avoided Serious Operations.—Many Women Suffering from Like Conditions Will Be Interested.

When a physician tells a woman, suffering from ovarian or womb trouble, that an operation is necessary it, of course, frightens her.

The very thought of the operating table and the knife strikes terror to her heart. As one woman expressed it, when told by her physician that she must undergo an operation, she felt that her death knell had sounded.

Our hospitals are full of women who are there for ovarian or womb operations!

It is quite true that these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but such cases are much rarer than is generally supposed, because a great many women have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after the doctors had said an operation must be performed. In fact, up to the point where the knife must be used to secure instant relief, this medicine is certain to help.

The strongest and most grateful statements possible to make come from women who, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, have escaped serious operations.

Margrite Ryan, Treasurer of St. Andrew's Society, Hotel English, Indianapolis, Ind., writes of her cure as follows:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I cannot find words to express my thanks for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me. The doctor said I could not get well unless I had an operation for ovarian and female troubles. I knew I could not stand the strain of an operation and made up my mind I would be an invalid for life. Hearing how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had saved other women from serious operations I decided to try it, and in less than four months I was entirely cured; and words fail to express my thankfulness."

Miss Margret Merkley of 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Loss of strength, extreme nervousness, severe shooting pains through the pelvic organs, cramps, bearing down pains, and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor, after making an examination, said that I had ovarian trouble and ulceration, and advised an operation as my only hope. To this I strongly objected—and I decided as a last resort to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"To my surprise the ulceration healed, all the bad symptoms disappeared, and I am once more strong, vigorous and well; and I cannot express my thanks for what it has done for me."

Ovarian and womb troubles are steadily on the increase among women—and before submitting to an operation every woman should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. for advice.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been curing the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation, ulceration, falling and displacement of the womb, leucorrhœa, irregularities, indigestion and nervous prostration. Any woman who could read the many grateful letters on file in Mrs. Pinkham's office would be convinced of the efficiency of her advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
